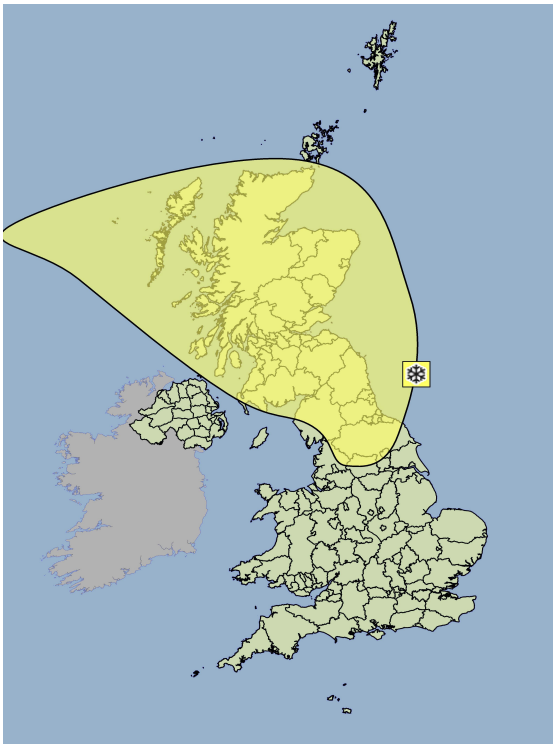
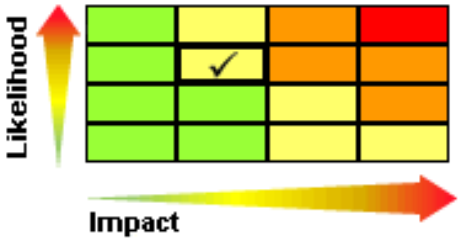
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An Atlantic frontal system will meet colder air over northern parts of the UK, bringing snow for a time. Whilst much of this will turn back to rain, routes above about 200 m northern Scotland and about 300 m northern England will have a prolonged spell of snow, which will drift in the strong winds.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Snow

Valid from 06:00 on Sun, 22nd Feb 2015 until 17:00 on Sun, 22nd Feb 2015

Rain, sleet and snow spreading east on Sunday will tend to turn back to rain, but remain as snow on high ground where accumulations of more than 5 cm are expected in places. Winds will gust to over 50 mph on coasts and hills, leading to blizzard conditions on high level routes.

The public should be aware of difficult driving conditions and the risk of disruption to transport.
